

1. _____ are hotels in the horse's body that are full of B-cells and T-cells.
2. The _____ is the functional unit of the _____.
3. _____ (removal of the _____ gland) is a well accepted part of treatment for MG in humans but in dogs and cats it would only be done if there is a tumor present.
4. The feline _____ virus is very related to the human _____ virus.
5. During canine _____, this yellow pigment, _____, collects within tissues.
6. This equine immune cell can be considered a floating drug store:
7. _____ acid is the natural by-product of anaerobic metabolism in the dog.
8. Indicate the "Mother Cell" that gives direct birth to many ovine thrombocytes.
9. Canine and bovine LAD are both _____ genetic disorders.
10. Indicate the bovine bone located immediately caudal to the axis bone.
11. Indicate the disorder in dogs that requires them to be positioned in a vertical orientation during meals.
12. Spontaneous bruising is the major clinical sign of this canine disorder: _____
13. Indicate the term that refers to the "front arm-pit" of the cat