

1. The prefix mal- has this meaning:
2. Name the cardiac hormone that acts as a diuretic:
3. When cattle have Hardware Disease, sharp metal objects collect in the _____.
4. Many animals feed on both animal and vegetable material – they are termed _____.
5. This technical name is given to canine bloat:
6. This molecule is a world-famous antagonist of progesterone.
7. Indicate one fact (reason) that makes the domestic cat an obligate carnivore:
8. In the world of Immunology, what organ houses Kupffer cells?
9. Name the 3 accessory digestive organs:
10. The liver can make glucose from certain precursor amino acids. This process is termed:
11. Describe the location of the alimentary tract in the pregnant sow.
12. This general disorder in horses always includes abdominal pain:
13. Mucus is not usually found in the urine of healthy animals but it is a normal constituent of this animal's urine:
14. When a cow has bloat, a trocar may be inserted into this region of the body:
15. In horses, when the mandible is shorter than the maxilla, this term is given to the condition: